Full Stack Developer

"...The only thing impossible is the thing you don't try..."

Experience

FULL STACK DEVELOPER / 2020

Skylab Coders Academy - Barcelona, Spain.
Bootcamp training focused on the learning of good practices along the whole web development process, working with Agile/Scrum methodologies, keeping version control with Git/Github, heavily emphasizing unit testing, semantics and over everything else: prioritizing team work. The result was the development of a complete App (Frontend and backend).

On the client-side, I used create-react-app to create an app with React Js and also Hooks. For testing the logics on this side I used Jest. On the server-side, I developed a non-relational data model in MongoDB with mongoose to be able to load user and spot data. I also deployed a restful API in NodeJS with its corresponding endpoints, using express and testing the business logic with Mocha & Chai, reaching a test-coverage above 95%.

About me...

I am a person who has no issues in taking new challenges, I love working in teams and I'm committed to acquire as much professional experience and knowledge as I can. My professional background is 10 years as a Senior Architect (design, planning and construction area), working both in large or multinational companies, medium-sized companies, as well as in small offices.

This year I've decided to make a radical change in my life, to my career and get myself into the IT sector as Full Stack Developer (my other great passion). For this I have successfully completed the bootcamp dictated by Skylab Coders Academy and I am currently interested in joining as part of a team within a company, in order to be able to continue with my professional development, and at the same time, keep going learning as much as I can. I feel ready to offer all my skills already gained with the training that I have acquired in more than 900 hr. of programming that I achieved while coursing at the academy plus other several amount of hours on different Udemy courses which you can see reflected on my gitHub repository. In there you'll find several apps and different exercises that reflect the knowledge referenced in this document.
